Danish Art

The idea for this exhibition actually came from the desire to realize a project with the painter Sofie Bird-Møller.

When we met rather by chance a few years ago and I saw her paintings for the first time in the Munich City Hall Gallery, I spontaneously felt a connection between her art and the author's jewelry. To this day I feel this connection.

Sofie Bird-Møller, who makes collages with acrylic paint on fashion photographs, gives the wearer, in this case the model, a new character, a personality. She literally charges the wearer with an artistic statement. The same happens with author's jewelry. A good piece of jewelry gives the wearer an artistic expression that is completely individual.

I am very pleased that in these difficult times we have managed to realize this beautiful exhibition combining jewelry and painting/collages. We are all starving for new impressions and for the beautiful things. Here we have combined everything and invite you to have good conversations, stimulating impressions and ultimately to buy.

Kinga Zobel
curator of the exhibition

"As Danish Consul General in Munich and art lover, I am very pleased that the exhibition 'Danish Art' at Gallery Biró offers a local platform to the Danish artists Kim Buck, Gabriella Goldsmith, Per Suntum, and Sofie Bird-Møller.

The Corona pandemic has accentuated the importance of art in our society. In the current climate, every exhibition and every visit to an exhibition is an act of direct support to the artists. Despite these difficult times, I feel confident that this wonderful exhibition will reach and inspire a large audience."
